the Home.

BRETHREN AND SISTERS:—You have a care for the associations of your children; your solicitude is awakened when you think of the companions they may associate with when beyond your watchful eye. Have you considered the influence of those silent companions they have through what they read? These may affect their minds and hearts even more than their living companions. In order that you may place in the hands of your children a companion that will not only be safe, but also prove an instructor to them, we ask you to subscribe for the YOUNG DISCIPLE. It is a pure and beautiful little religious weekly, designed to furnish reading for boys and girls that will give them happy hours every week, and make them wiser and better. It costs only 50 CENTS PER YEAR, post-paid. Never can you invest 50 cts. to a better purpose than for the cultivation and well being of your children, and we hope that all parents who have children for whose welfare they are concerned, will enclose 50 cents and try the YOUNG DISCIPLE a year. Postage stamps will be accepted when other change can't be had. Sample copies sent free. Agents wanted in every church. Address,

CENTENNIAL ALMANAC FOR 1879.

MERCURY IS THE RULING PLANET THIS YEAR.

The following is an extract from the "Centennial Almanac" for the year 1879.

MERCURY is this year the reigning planet.

YEAR IN GENERAL. Is more dry and cold than warm, and seldom fruitful.

SPRING. The end of March will be warm, April, until the 25th, dry, afterwards cold; May will have some cold days in the commencement, so that the fruit will be in danger.

SUMMER. Will have a good deal of rain, by which the earth will, however, not be properly refreshed. The hay and grain can be brought in pretty well, though it will be best not to delay with it.

AUTUMN. In the commencement there will be a great deal of rain, and there will be early frost; but when the half of October is past, there will be dry weather, until the commencement of advent.

WINTER. After a pleasant autumn, winter will fall in suddenly in the commencement of December; it will be cold, and snow until February, which will appear rather mild; but from the middle on to the 4th of March it will be cold; and from thence on to the termination, storms and tempests will take place.

CULTIVATION OF SPRING GRAIN. Will succeed pretty well. It is a favorite year for barley. Oats, peas and other leguminous plants must be sown when the ground is neither too dry nor too wet and damp. Hemp and flax will be good, but the hemp will remain short.

CULTIVATION OF WINTER GRAIN. Is various. If the summer of the preceding year was very warm, wheat and rye will in the present year yield largely in straw, but little in the grain; but if the preceding year was humid, they will yield well in the grain. Rye and wheat will be endangered in the blossoming.

AUGUST SEEDING. The early and the late will be the best; the middle one will be consumed by the flies. The early sown grain can be pastured by the sheep in the Spring, but the late sown not.

FRUIT. In some places it will grow abundantly, in some places tolerably, and in others there will be none at all.

HORS. Will not be abundant nor strong.

GRAPE CULTURE seldom succeeds; probably in five or six years once; is always rough, and if ever it promise fairly in the spring, it seldom produces anything good; for two unproductive years will follow yet, viz., that of the Moon and Saturn.

TEMPESTS AND THUNDERGUSTS. The east wind will be the most prevalent, sometimes the west, but seldom the north wind; during the summer there will be but few thundergusts.

FISHES. There will be but few fish in the streams during the summer; in autumn they will increase.

DISEASES. Can be cured only slowly in this year, and they prevail mostly in the spring and latter part of autumn. Epidemic diseases generally prevail among the cattle this year.

INTRODUCTORY.

Another year of our era is drawing to a close, and will, ere long be numbered with the past. The new and approaching one will bring to all who live to see, labors to be performed and trials to be endured. It will bring many of our race into existence, and witness the departure of many from time to eternity. The rapid flight of time is very generally acknowledged, but its solemn and practical lessons not so generally heeded.

Among the conveniences of life is the Almanac. We have in accordance with our custom, prepared our family and church Almanac for 1879, and offer it to our Fraternity and the public. We have endeavored to make it as complete in its different departments as possible, and hope it will not be found inferior to any of its predecessors. Our purpose has been, and will be still to improve in this as in all our productions.

In addition to the common contents of an Almanac, we have added such reading matter as we hope will be useful and edifying to the families into which it is introduced. The ministerial list being a desideratum in our work, a considerable part of it is occupied with it, and we have tried to make it as complete and correct as possible.

The favor which the Brethren's Almanac has met with from both our Fraternity and the public is appreciated, and a liberal patronage is solicited.

OUR CHURCH HISTORY.

In almost all histories of the religious denominations, when a description of our church is given we find it, in some way or other, grossly misrepresented, or mixed up with some other sect. The following, as given in Prof. Roswell D. Hitchcock's "Dictionary of Religious Denominations" is the nearest correct of anything we have yet seen, and in order that historians and others may have a more correct idea of us, we publish it in our Almanac:

"TUNKERS—From the German Tunken, 'to dip.' Also called Dunkers. Call themselves the 'Church of the Brethren.' Originated in Germany in 1708, and were severely persecuted. In 1719 began to emigrate to Pennsylvania; and in 1729 the whole church had come over. Now found in fifteen of the United States, though most numerous in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio and Indiana, and number about 100,000 communicants. Baptism is by trine-immersion, and administered only to believers. The Lord's supper is celebrated in the evening, with feet-washing. The Kiss of charity is given. There is also the laying on of hands and the anointing the sick with oil, when desired. Ministers are chosen from the deacons and laity. No special training is prescribed, and no fixed salaries are paid, but ministers are supported, and the poor are provided for.

GOOSE-BONE WEATHER PREDICTIONS.—The goose-bone is more closely watched in Kentucky than in any other part of the country. It has been handed down among the early traditions of the State, and may be called the Kentucky weather prophet. It is to be found in most Kentucky country homes, and in many parts of the State the farmers consult it, and prepare for handling their crops in accordance with its readings. The prophecy of the goose-bone does not extend beyond the year in which the goose was hatched, and the prediction is for the three winter months only. Take the breast bone of a last spring's goose and divide it into three equal parts, and the different divisions will represent December, January and February. The breast bone of a goose is translucent, and if clear when held up to the light, the weather will be mild and pleasant; but if covered with cloud like blots it will be gloomy and cold; the heavier the blots the colder will be the weather.

THE RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD.

It is estimated that there are in the world about 3,600 different languages and about 1,000 different religions and sects. The adherents of the principle religions are supposed to be nearly as follows: Greek Church, 72,800,000; Six other Oriental Churches, 6,500,000; Roman Catholics, 195,000,000; Protestants, 97,139,000; Mohammedans, 160,000,000; Buddhists, 340,000,000; Other Asiatic Religionists, 260,000,000; Pagans, 200,000,000; Jews, 6,000,000.

WEATHER INDICATED BY MOVEMENTS OF CLOUDS—If small clouds increase, expect much rain. If large clouds decrease, expect fair weather. Soft looking or delicate clouds foretell fine weather, with moderate or light breezes; hard edged oily looking clouds, wind. As wind is only air in motion, its first effect is in driving the clouds before it. Hence when clouds float about in a serene sky, from whatever quarter they come, you may expect wind. If they are collected in one place, they will be dispersed by the rays of the sun. If they come from the north east, they indicate wind; if from the south, great rains, but if, from whatever quarter, you see them driving about at sunset, they are sure signs of an approaching tempest.

TRIALS OF EARLY GERMAN EMIGRANTS

Correspondence of Christopher Saur to the Governor of Pennsylvania, concerning their grievances, etc., published as per original copy of letter. Communicated by Abram H. Cassel, Harleysville, Pa.

GERMANTOWN, PA., }
March 15th, 1755. }

HONORED AND BELOVED SIR:—

Confidence in your wisdom and clemency made me so free as to write this letter to you. I would not have that anybody should know these private lines, otherwise it would have become me to get a hand who is able to write in a proper manner and style to a person as your station requireth.

It is now thirty years since I came to this province, out of a country where no liberty of conscience was, nor humanity reigned in the house of my then country lord, and where all the people is owned with their bodies to the lord there, and are obliged to work for him six days in every week, viz.: three days with a horse, and three days with a hoe, shovel or spade; or if he cannot come himself, he must send somebody in his room, (or stead). And when I came this province and found everything to the contrary from where I came from, I wrote largely to all my friends and acquaintances of the civil and religious liberty, privileges, &c., and of the goodness I have heard and seen, and my letters were printed and re-printed, and provoked many a thousand people to come to this province, and many thanked the Lord for it, and desired their friends also again to come here.

Some years the price was five pistols† per head freight, and the merchants and captains crowded for passengers, finding more profit by passengers than by goods, &c.

But the love for great gain caused that Stealman lodged the poor passengers like herrings, and as too many had not room between decks, he kept abundance of them upon deck; and sailing to the southward, where the people were at once out of their climate, and for the want of water and room, became sick and died very fast, in such a manner that in one year no less than two thousand was buried in the seas and Philadelphia. Steadman, at that time, bought a license in Holland that no captain or merchant could load any as long as he had not two thousand loaded. This murdering trade made my heart ache, especially, when I heard that there was more profit by their death than by carrying them alive. I thought of my provoking letters being partly the cause of so many people's death. I wrote a letter to the magistrate at Rotterdam, and immediately the Monopolium was taken from John Steadman.

—† A gold e. in worth from $3 to $5.

Our Legislature was also petitioned, and a law was made as good as it is, but was never executed. Mr. Spaffort, an old, poor captain, was made overseer for the vessels that came loaded with passengers, whose salary came to from $200 to $300 a year, for concealing the fact that sometimes the poor people had but twelve inches place, and not half bread nor water. Spaffort died, and our Assembly chose one Mr. Trotter who left every ship slip, although he seen that a great many people had no room at all, except in the long boat, where every man perished. There were so many complaints, so that many in Philadelphia and almost all Germantown signed a petition that our Assembly might give that office to one Thomas Say, an English merchant, at Philadelphia, of whom we have the confidence that he would take no bribe for concealing what the poor people suffered; or, if they will not turn Mr. Trotter out of office, to give him an assistance of one Daniel Mackinett, a shop-keeper in Philadelphia, who speaks Dutch and English, who might speak with the people in their language—but in vain, except they have done what I know not.

Among other grievances the poor Germans suffer is one, viz.: that when the ignorant Germans agrees fairly with merchants at Holland for seven pistols and a half, when they come to Philadelphia the merchants make them pay what they please, and take at least nine pistols. The poor people on board are prisoners. They durst not go ashore, or have their chests delivered, except they allow in a bond or pay what they owes not; and when they go into the country, they loudly complain there, that no justice is to be had for poor strangers. They show their agreements, wherein is fairly mentioned that they are to pay seven pistols and a half to Isaac and Zachary Hoke, at Rotterdam, or their order at Philadelphia, &c., and as this is so much practiced, that at least 2000 or 3000 pounds in each year the country is wronged from. It was much desired that among wholesome laws, such a one may be made that when such vessels arrive, that a commissioner might be appointed to inspect into their agreement and judge if 7½ pistols make not seven and a half. Some of the Assemblymen was asked whether there was no remedy? They answered, "the law is such that what is above forty shillings must be decided at court, and every one must make his own cause appear good and stand a trial." A very poor comfort for two or three thousand wronged people, to live at the discretion of their merchants. They are so longing to go ashore, and fill once their belly, that they allow and pay what is demanded; and some are sighing; some are adjourned, I was desirous to know what was done concerning the Dutch bill, and was told that your Honor have consented to all points, except that the German passengers must not, (or need not) have their chests along with them; and because you was busy with more needful business, it was not ended. I was sorry for it, and thought, either your Honor have no good counsellors, or you can't think of the consequences, otherwise you could not insist on this point. Therefore I hope you will not take it amiss to be informed of the case, and of some of the consequences, viz.:—The crown of England found it profitable to peopleing the American colonies, and for the encouragement thereof, the coming and transportation of German Protestants was indulged, and orders was given to the officers at the Customs houses in the ports of England, not to be sharp with the vessels of German passengers—knowing that the populating of the British colonies will, in time to come, profit more than the trifles of duty at the custom houses would import in the present time. This the merchants and importers experienced.

They filled the vessels with passengers, and as much of merchant's goods as they thought fit, and left passengers chests, &c., behind; and sometimes they loaded vessels with palatine chests by itself. But the poor people depended upon their chests, wherein was some provision, such as they were used to, as dried apples, pears, plums, mustard, medicines, vinegar, brandy, gammons, butter, clothing, shirts, and other necessary linens, money and whatever they brought with them; and when their chests was left behind, or shipped in other vessels they had want of nourishment, and when not sufficient provision was shipped for the passengers, and they had nothing themselves, they famished and died. Or, when they arrived alive, they had no money to buy bread, nor anything to sell; if they would sell spare clothes, they had no clothes nor shirt to strip themselves, nor was they able to cleanse themselves of louses and nastiness; or, if they was taken into houses, and trusting on their effects and money, when it comes, it was either left behind, or robbed and plundered by the sailors behind in the vessels; or if such a vessel arrived before them, it was searched by the merchants boys, &c., and their best effects, or all taken out, and no remedy for it. And this last mentioned practice, that people's chests are opened and their best effects taken out, is not only a practice this twenty five, twenty, ten or five years, or sometime only; but it is the common custom and daily complaints of, to the week last past, when a pious man living with me, had his chest broke open and three fine shirts and a flute was taken out. The lock was broke to pieces, and the lid of the chest split with iron and chisels. Such, my dear Sir, is the case, and if your Honor will countenance the mentioned practices, the consequence will be, that the vessels with passengers, will be filled with merchant's goods, wine, &c., as much as possible, and at the king's custom they will call it passengers drink and necessities for the people, their household goods, &c., which will be called free of duty. And if they please to load the vessels only with chests of passengers and what lies under them, that will be called also free of duty at the custom houses; and as there are no owners of the chests with them, and no bill of loading is ever given, nor will be given, the chests will be freely opened and plundered by the sailors and others, and what is left will be searched in the stores by the merchants' boys and their friends and acquaintances. Thus, by consequence, the king will be cheated, and the smugglers and store-boys will be glad of your upholding and encouraging this, their very profitable business; but the poor sufferers will sigh or carry a revenge in their bosoms, according as they are godly or ungodly, that such thievery and robbery is maintained.

If such a merchant should lose thirty, forty, fifty, or ten thousand pounds, he may have some yet to spend and to spare, and has friends; but if a poor man's chest is left behind, or plundered either at sea or in the stores, he has lost all he has. If a rich man's store, or house, or chest is broke open and robbed or plundered, there is abundance of noise about it; but if a 1000 of poor men's property is taken from them, in the mentioned manner, there is not a word to be said.

If I was ordered to print advertisements, that people who lost their chests, by leaving them behind against their will, or whose was opened and plundered at sea, when they was sent after them in other vessels, or whose was broke open and plundered in the stores at Philadelphia—should come and receive their value for it (not four-fold) but only single or half; your Honor would be wondering of a swarm from more than two or three thousand people. But as such is not to be expected, it must be deferred to the decision of the great, great, long, long day, where certainly an impartial judgment will be seen, and the last farthing must be paid, whereas, in this present time, such poor sufferers had, and will have no better answer than as it is commonly given: "Can you prove who has opened and stolen out of your chest?" or "have you a bill of lading?" This has been the practice by some of the merchants at Philadelphia, and if it must continue any longer, the Lord our God, must compare that city to her sister Sodom, as He said: "Behold, this was the iniquity of Sodom: pride, fullness of bread, and abundance of idleness was in her. Neither did she strengthen the hand of the poor and needy, (Ezekiel 16 : 49.) but rather weakened the hand of the poor and needy." (18 : 12.)

We have at this time, especially, need to call upon the Lord for his protection; but in the meantime we ought to cleanse our hands and if we will not, he will answer us hereafter: "And when you spread forth your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you. Yea, when you make many prayers, I will not hear, because your hands are full of blood."

P. S., June 12.—Beloved Sir:—If the Lord of all the Hosts shall bless your administration, you must have regard for His direction, (Psalm 82) more than to any of your counsellors; who may give you counsels more proper, where they have no interest in it for themselves. Permit me to say if somebody would give me counsels directly against the will of the Lord, and against the interest of our gracious king, to cheat him, and against the welfare of this province, and to the dishonor of my character, I would think little of him or them.

The Lord bless our good king, and all his faithful ministers, and your Honor, and protect the city of Philadelphia and country, from all incursions and attempts of enemies. But if you should insist against a remedy for the poor German's grievances—although no remedy is to be had for that which is past—and an attempt of enemies should ensue before the city of Philadelphia, you will certainly find the Germans faithful for, or the English nation; as you might have seen how industrious they are to serve the king and government, for the protection of their substance, life and liberties. But, as there is many and many thousands who have suffered injustice of their merchants at Philadelphia, it would not be prudent to call on them all for assistance, as there are certainly many wicked among the Germans; which, if they should find themselves overpowered by the French, I would not be bound for their behavior, that they would not make reprisals on them that picked their chests and forced them to pay what they owed not! and hindered yet the remedy for others. No! if they were all Englishmen who suffered so much, I would much less be bound for their good behavior.

Pray, Sir, don't look upon this as a trifle; for there are many Germans, who have been wealthy people in Germany, who have lost sixty, eighty, one, two, three, four hundred to a thousand pounds worth, by leaving their chests behind, or was deprived and robbed in the stores, of their substance, and are obliged now to live poor, with grief. If you do scruple the truth of this assertion, let them be called in the new-paper, with hopes for remedies, and your Honor will believe me; but if the Dutch (German) nation should hear that no regard is for them, and no justice to be obtained, it will be utterly in vain to offer them free schools—especially as they are to be regulated and inspected by one who is not respected nor regarded in all this province.

I hope your Honor will pardon my scribbling; as it has no other aim than a needful redressing of the multitude of grievances of the poor people, and for the preserving of their lives and property, and that the Germans may be adhered to the friendship of the English nation, and for securing the honor of your Excellency, and not a farthing for your humble servant,

CHRISTOPHER SAUR:

FAMILY PRAYER.

BY JAMES QUINTER.

As the Family Almanac is, as its name implies, a convenience in the family, an article on family worship or family prayer, will not, we trust, be considered inappropriate to our work.

"As we have, therefore, opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith" Gal. 6: 10. This Christian admonition implies that God's universal family has a claim upon our Christian benevolence. And if the great family of mankind to which we belong have such a claim, that more limited circle, in which we live and move, and to which we are allied by the most tender and endearing ties, and which we call our family or household, surely has special claims upon us. This is plainly implied in the following inspired language: "It any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." 1. Tim. 5 : 8. Admitting that this language applies to the temporal provisions of our families, or even primarily to such provisions, we must conclude that their spiritual interests are also included, or that the duty of the father to the spiritual interests of his family is taught sufficiently plain elsewhere; for surely the spiritual interests of those under our care are not of less importance than are their temporal interests.

But while the Christian Scriptures teach that it is the duty of heads of families and parents to labor to promote the salvation and spiritual interests of those under their care, and to bring up their children "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord," Eph. 6 : 4, is it the duty of parents to establish and observe family worship? Or can they do all that is required of them towards their children, and be clear of their blood should they be lost, without having family worship? These are questions that, from the weight of their import, commend themselves to the prayerful and candid consideration of all Christian parents, and should be examined and answered in view of the fact that we are to be judged by the perfect law of liberty,—by its general principles, as well as by its precepts and prohibitions.

Do we ask for a direct precept or positive law enjoining family worship? And if there is no such precept or law pointed out, shall we conclude that we are under no obligation to observe or practice it? We should not forget that one way of teaching duty in the gospel is by general principles. We cannot expect a direct precept for every duty obligatory upon Christians in all ages in which they live, and under every circumstance under which they may be placed. It is by reasoning from Christian principles rather than from positive precepts, or prohibitions, that our duty in regard to what is to be done, or what is not to be done, is often ascertained by us. And we would remind the brethren and sisters of our own fraternity that it is from general principles more than from positive precepts, that we maintain our order of plainness in our attire and in our general habits.

But is not the fact that it is the privilege of the head of the family to bring all his family before God around the family altar and there invoke the blessing of heaven upon it, a sufficient warrant for family worship? If the parents feel the solemn responsibility that rests upon them to train up their off-spring for immortality and heaven, and feel their own insufficiency to do it, should they not rejoice that they may erect the family altar, and upon it offer their daily prayers to God for his grace to help them to do their duty, and for his converting power to come upon the unconverted members of the family, that they may be saved? Surely they should. If there was a sovereign who like Pharaoh, king of Egypt, possessed all the necessities of life within his kingdom himself, and thus render all his subjects entirely dependent upon him for the means of their subsistence, and would inform them that they could come to the royal palace and obtain all the necessities of life that they should need; would not the knowledge of the fact that the king would give them all they needed provided they would respectfully petition him, be sufficient without issuing a decree commanding them to come? We presume it would. How cheerfully and gladly then should the father, as the high priest of his family, bear all his household before God in prayer.

But owing to our reluctance to perform our duties, the Lord has not only made it our privilege to pray, but he has also made it our duty. And though there is no formal precept, and clear and unquestionable examples of the practice of family prayer, we have scriptural examples and precepts which seem to constitute authority for it. The prophet Jeremiah says, "Pour out thy fury upon the heathen that know thee not, and upon the families that call not on thy name." Jer. 10 : 25. It would here appear that families neglecting to call on the Lord were omitting duty, and consequently were exposed to the judgment of God.

Again; the practice of family prayer agrees well with the gospel injunctions enjoining various and frequent prayer, and indeed would seem to be included within those injunctions. We are commanded to "pray without ceasing," 1 Thess. 5 : 17. And the apostle says, "I will therefore that men pray everywhere," 1 Tim. 2 : 8. And again he says, "praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints." Eph. 6 : 18. These admonitions to prayer, let it be noticed, are given to believers in general, and not to any particular class. In such admonitions Christians are admonished to observe all kinds of prayer, and to pray on all suitable occasions. And what kind of prayer is more beautiful, appropriate and becoming than family prayer? Of all societies formed, the first in time, and first in importance is that of the family. And in proportion as all its various and relative duties are discharged, faithfulness to the church and to society in general, may be looked for. And household devotion if properly performed, will be a great help to the performance of household duties. By uniting in daily prayer, the members of the family both young and old will be reminded that there is a God, and that they have to do with him, are dependent upon him, and accountable to him. And such a reminder cannot well fail to have a salutary effect upon them.

But there is a passage of scripture standing in such relations to other passages inculcating domestic duties, that its application can hardly be understood in any other sense than as referring to family prayer. The words are these: "Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving" Col. 4:2. This text occurs in a series of admonitions and precepts given by the apostle Paul for the government and conduct of families and immediately follow his admonitions to masters. Its connection seems to associate it with family duties.

The example of the pious patriarchs, and of such whose practices are spoken of as commendable, recommends the practice of family prayer. Of Abraham God said, "I know him, that he will command his children, and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment; that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him." Gen. 18:19. Of Moses it is said, He "was faithful in all his house as a servant, for the testimony of those things which were to be spoken after." Heb. 3:5. Joshua said, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Joshua 24:15. Following the description we have of Noah and his family leaving the ark, it is said, "And Noah builded an altar unto the Lord; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar." Gen. 8:20. And of Cornelias, the first of the Gentile converts, it is honorably said, that he was "one that feared God with all his house; which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always." Acts 10:2. Dr. Cave, in his Primitive Christianity, p. 127, when speaking of the piety of the Christians of those ancient times, says, "At their first rising in the morning, they were went to meet together, and to betake themselves to prayer, (as is plainly implied in Chrysostom's exhortation,) to praise God for the protection and refreshment of the night, and to beg his grace and blessing for the following day; this was done by the master of the house, unless some minister of religion was present."

The benefits arising from the practice of family prayer, are many. (1) It will, if properly attended to, and if its result is such as it should be, throw a holy influence around the family that will greatly restrain the members of whatever conduct is contrary to the Christian profession. (2.) It will promote domestic union and peace. Under the influence of holy worship the heart has often been softened into a tenderness which will lead to a suppressing of those irritations and unkind feelings, which if left to remain in the heart, would produce trouble. It also operates in keeping such feelings from possessing the mind by filling it with better thoughts and feelings. (3.) The father or mother who leads in family worship, will be more likely to secure by so doing, from their children and all the other members of the family, the respect to which their authority entitles them. If the children and domestics are called together daily and have a portion of the Bible read to them, and a simple and heartfelt prayer offered in their presence and for them, such holy exercises will have a happy effect upon all during the day. The father will be more kind and patient, the mother more careful and considerate to those around her, and the children more peaceable, and the employees more accommodating. (4.) Family worship is an important means for imparting religious instruction. Although the portion of scripture read is small, still if there is one or two lessons read every day, in the course of time much can be learned. (5.) The tendency of family worship is to impress the minds of the young and all who engage in it, who are yet unconvinced, with the importance of salvation, and to help them to seek it. (6.) The last benefit of family prayer that we shall notice, is, that it is a means of drawing down God's favor and blessing on the family that practices it, and on all who belong to it. "Ask, and ye shall receive," is a promise of our Lord. And family prayer, as well as other kinds of prayer, has in its very act a tendency to promote the common or lawful objects of prayer. The Spirit of holiness and peace will shed its precious and divine influence over the father and mother, and all who worship with them. Religion will dwell in that family making all who receive it the better by its presence.

In view of the many advantages that family prayer has to recommend it, let an altar be built if it has never been built in your home. Around that altar gather daily, and there perform such holy services as you are able to do. Be not discouraged. Practice will improve you, and God will help you. And thus perpetuate family worship in its simple and beautiful character. It is sometimes imagined that the sound of the sea is heard in the shell washed from its bed; so may the sound of a parent's prayer be heard in the ear of a child, when that child, like the prodigal son, is far from home and from God.

HISTORY OF THE BROWNSVILLE CHURCH, MARYLAND.

BY EMANUEL SLIFER.

Dear Editors:—Perceiving that you wish matter to be inserted in the forthcoming Brethren's Almanac, I will therefore give you a concise history of the church at Brownsville, Washington Co., Md.

The Brownsville church comprises the lower part of Washington county, known as Pleasant Valley, also the southern part of Middletown valley, Frederick county, Md.

This congregation is located upon territory which was once embraced in what is now known, as then, as the Grosnickle's congregation in Middletown Valley, Frederick county, Md., which embraces Machanicstown, Frederick Co., Md., now in D. P. Saylor's congregation to a point six miles beyond Charlestown, Jefferson Co., W. Va. The Virginia portion of the aforesaid Grosnickle congregation is now under the supervision of Elder D. Long of Washington county, Md. After cutting off the two extreme points of the Grosnickle congregation, and assigned as above. Middletown valley alone was left to the last named congregation, with the lower portion of Pleasant valley, Washington county, Md. Still leaving the territory quite extensive, say twenty miles north and south, and eight miles from east to west. In time this territory was divided by the great national turnpike which here runs from Baltimore westward. All the members south of said road, belong to the Brownsville congregation. Soon after the close of the Revolutionary war, our brethren of Pennsylvania emigrated to this section of the country. Among those early pioneers was my grandfather John Slifer, whose name appears once or twice in our minutes of those earlier days—Two of his brothers-in-law, Peter Miller and Peter Gaver, and my great-grandfather, (on my mother's side) whose name was — Myers. Those named took up land around what is now known as Burkittsville, Frederick county, Md.,

whilst Rudolph Brown about the same time settled in Pleasant valley, Washington county, Md. Brownsville being named after him. Burkittsville and Brownsville are but two miles apart, yet the South mountain runs between them. And here is Crapton Gap at Burkittsville, a place rendered famous in history by a battle being fought during the late civil war, which took place on the 14th of Sept. 1862.

I will now proceed to name the ministering brethren of the Grosnickle congregation, until Brownsville was separated. For a number of years the scattered members through this section of country, were dependent upon traveling ministers. My recollection extends back to brother by the name of Ferguson, and whose co-laborer was the grandfather of elder Jacob Leatherman, who died some few years ago. After Ferguson, the elder, Christian Harshman and a brother by the name of Holler. (who now has three sons in the west preaching.) After those came Christian Harshman jr., and Jacob Leatherman to whom I have already referred. Next in succession Daniel Brown. Jacob Leatherman was the first elder I remember. Then followed Henry Koonth, Geo. Bear, Emanuel Slifer, Daniel Boyer, Ezra Gilbert, George Grosnickle, and Jonathan Baker. About this time Grosnickle circuit was divided, April 1864. Bro. George Bear at this time was also an elder, who was assigned to Brownsville congregation. Bro Jacob Leatherman had the supervision still, of the Grosnickle church. The ministers now of that church are George Leatherman and Daniel Gibbon. Bro. Bear continued as elder of our congregation until his death, which occurred on the 16th of April, 1872, aged 83 years. In 1873, October 14th, Emanuel Slifer was ordained elder of the Brownsville congregation, whose assistants are Cornelius W. Castle and Eli Yourtee. This brings our history up to the 15th of Sept, 1877. Since the 30th of January last we have added to our number forty-three souls. We are now finishing an addition to our meeting-house. Our number is now about 134. That the Lord may continue to prosper his Zion should be the prayer of all.

HISTORY OF ANTIETAM CHURCH. FRANKLIN CO., PA.

BY D. H. FAHNEY.

This is one of the oldest branches of the church of the brethren in America, and it may be interesting to the reader to know something about it.

[31 DAYS.]

JUPITER is in Opposition with the Sun the 31st of this Month, nearest to the Earth, and shines all Night.

But to give a correct history of everything that transpired, or even a condensed sketch, since its organization, would be impossible, as no records were kept for the first one hundred years of its existence, or if kept, were not preserved. By the aid, however, of some of the oldest fathers and mothers now living, and some who have recently died, some valuable information may be given. The church was organized, as nearly as we can get at it, about the middle of the eighteenth century, not later we think than the year 1752. It was first named the Conococheague congregation, a name given by the Indians to a stream flowing through our county. The names of the ministers from its organization to the year 1800 are not now known, except two, viz.: George A. Martin and Wm. Stover. For the first fifty years the brethren suffered many privations on account of the French war in 1755, the Revolution 20 years later, and subsequent Indian wars together with many inconveniences incident to a newly settled country, as our part of the state was at that time. For upwards of forty years no meeting-houses were built; the brethren worshipped in their houses and barns, and sometimes in the open air. The dread of the Indian's tomahawk and scalping knife, was everywhere felt. In the morning before going to the fields to work, the farmer and his sons often bid good-bye to the balance of the family, fearing they might not return, or if permitted to do so, would find their loved ones murdered by the Indians. Such was the state of affairs here then. Some, indeed fell victims to the ruthless hand of their dreaded foe, but owing to the strict vigilance of the settlers, the Indians were finally banished, and a brighter era dawned over the community. The long dark night of woe gave way to a beautiful morn betokening a pleasant day, which the brethren, with others have enjoyed through the present century. In 1798 our first meeting-house was built where the brethren still meet every two weeks for worship. It is commonly known as Antietam, or Prices church, built on the banks of the Antietam near Waynesboro, Pa. Since then other meeting-houses have been built, making five at the present day. Four Annual meetings have been held in the congregation within the present century, viz: In 1810 at Antietam meeting-house; In 1829 with Bro. Geo. Royer; in 1847 with brother Isaac Deardorff; in 1866 with brother Jacob Price. The names of the ministers elected since 1800, are as follows: Daniel Stover; John Royer; Jacob Holsinger, sr.; Henry Strickler; Jacob Fahrney; Israel Senger; Daniel Keefer; D. Fogelsonger, sr.; Wm. Boyer; Jacob Price; Wm. Etter; David Boek; Joseph Gipe; Isaac Renner; Joseph F. Rohrer; Joseph Garber; Daniel Holsinger; Jacob F. Oller; D. F. Good; Abram Golly; Jacob Snider; Daniel Baker, and John D. Benedick. We might also give the names of all the deacons elected since the year 1800, but it would perhaps be tedious to the general reader, and I will add only the names of the present ministry and sub-officers of the church, viz: Eld. Jacob Price, D. F. Good, J. F. Oller, Jacob Snider, Daniel Baker, John D. Benedick. Deacons: John Stoner, Jacob Holsinger, Wm. Skilling, Jacob Fridley, B. E. Price, Daniel Row, David Newcomer, B. Fridley, D. Geiser, D. B. Mentzer, S. Welty, and J. Kurtz. Secretary, Josiah Fahrney; Treasurer, D. Newcomer.

The brethren meet in council every three months. The secretary records all that is brought before the meeting with its decisions. Also the names of all the members. The treasurer performs all the duties assigned to his office. It may yet be stated that our ministers (two together) go on a circuit through our congregation. The two that will be at one place one Sunday, will be at another appointment the next, thus there can be no disappointments, and the ministers become better acquainted with the members. Our membership numbers about 400, eighty of whom live in Waynesboro, where we have a meeting-house and an organized Sunday-school, conducted by members only. J. H. Gehr and Tobias Inler are the present superintendents. In the primitive days of the church the Welsh Run and Boek Creek congregations belonged to it. In later years out of it the Ridge, and Falling Spring churches were also formed into organizations of their own. For the prosperity of our church, all praise, only is due to the Supreme Ruler of all things without whose aid no good could have been accomplished. May her members remain united, and love prevail that her mission may be fully carried out, and many souls saved from eternal death.

An Exhortation.

It is not exactly in the line of news, but many of our readers would save themselves a cold, a cough and consumption perhaps, if they would put on their winter flannels earlier in the season than many people are accustomed to put them on. Then, if people would gradually accustom themselves to have more outside air in their sleeping rooms, having sufficient light woollen coverings to keep them warm, they would not be as apt to take cold during the day.

OPEN STOVE VENTILATING CO.,

115 Fulton St.

NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS:—

"Visitors and the occupants of our counting-rooms are no longer half stifled in impure air loaded with noxious gases, for we are now using the warming and ventilating apparatus known as 'The Fire on the Hearth.' This apparatus is in fact, an open-fire portable furnace which not only keeps the atmosphere sweet and pure, but it also disseminates the heat uniformly throughout the entire room. It is economical of fuel and keeps fire as continuously as a base burner. The larger sizes are especially adapted for use in large offices, stores, school and lecture rooms. Their adoption for use in our court rooms would be a great blessing to all who are obliged to do business there."—New York Daily Bulletin, December 25, 1877.

"By its means, the atmosphere of a room may be renewed every 15 or 20 minutes, which is very important, especially in schools." The Manufacturer and Builder.

"In 'The Fire on the Hearth' we have a stove that combines the good points of every known heater, and, as far as we can see, is free from defect."—The Farm and Fireside, N. Y.

JOHN P. EBERSOLE'S

SURE CURE!

Made from Roots and Barks of well-known Medicinal Virtues.

PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH

RHEUMATISM

Should remember that the "Sure Cure," has been used for many years, and has acquired an enviable reputation wherever it has been tried for its

REMARKABLE CURES.

It Possesses Great Alternative and Blood Purifying Virtues which have also made it invaluable in and those affections arising from an impure state of the Blood.

SCROFULA, NEURALGIA AND DYSPEPSIA,

For a few of the many Testimonials we receive, see the Brethren's Almanac of last year. Price of the Medicine, $1.00 a bottle. Liberal terms to Agents, and discounts where more than one bottle is ordered at a time.

—O:—

Until the close of this year I will send the Book of Psalms, the New Testament, a Hymn Book, and a Box of "Old Dr. Fahrney's Mild Liver Pills."

For the small sum of twenty-five (25) cents. In ordering use the following form:

"Enclosed find 25 cents in postage stamps for the Books and Pills noticed in the Brethren's Almanac."—Give Name, Post Office, and State plainly.

If you are not in want of the above then order to your address on postal card a copy of Fahrney's Quarterly. The lecture printed in this paper is worth your time to send and get it.

The first edition of the QUARTERLY is already nearly exhausted, but more will be printed from the same type, and all will be supplied. Future numbers will be richly illustrated, and sent free until 1880, to all who order Books and Medicines, but to none others.

TESTIMONIALS:

Elder G. Myers, Eldorado, Pa., July 1, writes: "Please send me $2.00 worth of your mild Liver Pills. My wife has been sick for about four months. We have applied to the third doctor, and between times she used the box of pills you sent me, and thinks they did her good, and wishes me to send for more."

A. D. Johnson, Rogersville, Ohio, June 8, says: "We received the pills you sent all right, and we were much benefited by them. I have been using your blood cleanser. Last winter I was taken sick with bilious fever; I was hardly out of bed the whole winter, and we tried to get some of your Panacea, and got some. I took one bottle and began to get better, and I got another bottle, and used the pills you sent me, and I got entirely well."

Amos Reed, Haddam, Kan., July 7, writes: "Your pills gave us good satisfaction as any we have ever used."

Address, Dr. P. FAHRNEY,
